Choosing a profession as a career is quite a tedious task. Unavailability of information regarding a specific career leads to confusion and lack of confidence in pursuing that career.

ICRI, a leading postgraduate educational institution has taken a step to create awareness about various career options to the prospective students. The objective is to enable the students to make an informed decision regarding their career.

Career Awareness Programme being organized at ICRI on 21st March, 2010 is a step towards achieving this objective and will focus on imparting awareness and information of career prospects in Healthcare Management, Medical Tourism and Clinical Research.

The counseling sessions will be conducted by experts from specific professions.
